OVERVIEW

The XVII Arnoldshain Seminar and the X Meeting on International Economics, are being organized by the Institute of International Economics (Universities of Alicante, Valencia and Jaume I) in Spain, with the aim of bringing together scholars interested in Globalization, Energy and Environment to discuss their research and to exchange ideas. The Conference will also welcome papers related to the following non-exhaustive list of topics:

- International Trade: Theoretical Approach and Policy Analysis
- Growth and Development
- Economic Governance
- Monetary and Exchange Rate Policy
- Cripto-Currencies and Central Banking
- European Economies: EU, Brexit and Beyond
- Eastern European Economies in Transition
- Energy, Climate Change and Environmental Economics
- Globalization, Robotics and Artificial Intelligence
- Migration and International Factors Movements
- FDI and Multinationals
- Global Value Chains

Previous Seminars (<https://iei.uji.es/arnoldshain-seminar/>) have attracted speakers from different countries. We welcome academics, policy-makers, and in particular early career researchers, including postgraduate research students.
